Celebrating Our Family

Meet Robin Watson

Robin is an Arizona native and was baptized at St. Matthew United Methodist Church and has been a member for 40 years!

She loves the Arizona weather and the fact that there are so many activities and things to do with her family. She is married to Courtney Watson and has 2 sons, Colton and Trenton, who both attend church here. Robin is a 2nd grade teacher by profession. Her first real job was in retail, and she has waitressed and been a bartender in the past. She enjoys teaching the Cherub Choir songs and playing the flute for our Sanctuary Choir, which she considers an honor to do.

Michael's Musings

It has been a couple of weeks since the awful tragedy that occurred in Paris. Other attacks in Belgium, England, Germany, and even in the United States have been thwarted thanks to law enforcement agencies that have keeping watch. After the Paris attacks there was a groundswell of support for the satirical newspaper Charlie Hebdo. People began chanting, "Je suis Charlie!" ("I am Charlie.") This was done to express solidarity with the newspaper and the victims of the massacre as well as to say that freedom of expression is important.

Islamic extremists were responsible for the attacks. Of course when such things happen some people begin to lump everyone devoted to Islam as extremists. Such a thing is called guilt by association and I remember from my logic and reasoning class that this is a fallacious argument. A certain idiom, "one bad apple can spoil the whole bunch" also seems to be pervasive among some people. If we look back into Christian history we can see some extreme things that were done in the name of "God." Justo Gonzales, a church historian calls the Crusades as "piety misguided." The idea was to recapture the Holy Land from the infidels, i.e. Muslims. Even children were sent and most either died on the way or became slaves.

In the 16th century after the Reformation, Protestants fought Catholics in the name of "God." The Anabaptists were a group who believed that people needed to be re-baptized, and that if something was not in the New Testament then it did not count. They were hunted down and killed by both Protestants and Catholics.

Mary Queen of Scots sought to restore Catholicism in England and became know as "Bloody Mary" because of the killing of Anglicans/Protestants to further her cause.

I could go on about other things from our Christian past but I will refrain. The point I wish to make is that Jesus came into the world to show us a way of peace and peace-filled living. Jesus wanted to include everybody in this way of life both Jew and Gentile. Recall from the Sermon on the Mount, "Blessed are the peacemakers for they shall be called the children of God."

As we enter into the Season of Lent later in February I invite everyone to rally together in ways of promoting peace. We need to show our solidarity with Jesus and with God to show we are capable of peace in our lives. However, before we can spread peace throughout the world we need to have peace within ourselves. Recall also that Jesus says, "May peace I give to you. It is not as the world gives that I give to you."

If we are able to demonstrate peace within our faith community at St. Matthew UMC then people living around us might notice. Imagine sharing peace within our neighborhood that might touch their lives in special ways. Who knows maybe we can stop terrorism in its tracks by being a people that live in peaceful ways.

Grace and peace,

Lay Leader Notes

Dear St. Matthew church family, I have decided to switch from "resolutions" to "goals" for the New Year as having a goal gives me room to move along the way while keeping a resolution is all or nothing. One of my goals for this year (and one that will be there for the rest of my life) is to learn from Jesus the importance of putting people first and loving them as they are.

Max Lucado helps me remember not only who I want to emulate but who should hear now how important they are to me and others. Max asks if you can list the ten wealthiest men in the world, the ten last Heisman trophy winners, the ten last Nobel or Pulitzer winners. If you're like me, you probably had to refer to Google. On the other hand, look at those who have the impact of those who wear the face of Jesus in your life:

- think of three people who you like spending time with
- name ten people who have taught you something worthwhile
- five friends who have been there for you in difficult times

Look around you on Sunday morning and make a point to speak to those people you just listed. And continue your journey on becoming on those lists for someone else. I am also constantly working on developing and sharing a sense of "the peace that passes understanding" I leave you with this prayer: Deep peace of the running waters to you, Deep peace of the flowing air to you, Deep peace of the smiling stars to you, Deep peace of the quiet earth to you, Deep peace of the watching shepherds to you, Deep peace of the Son of Peace to you. Amen.

Many Blessings, Betsy Hertzler, Co Lay Leader

Peace

Peace will come when people live in friendship, side by side, and cherish understanding more than hatred, greed and pride.
Peace will come when people see all people as the same, and no one has to live in fear, in ignorance, or shame.
Peace will come when people who are needy can reach out for shelter, food, or love, and no one has to do without.
Peace will come when people learn to listen and to care about the rights and dignity of people everywhere.
Peace will come when love and trust and kindness know rebirth, and on that day all people will rejoice in peace on earth.

-Amanda Bradley

News from Rev. Eric Brown

The Rev. Eric Brown, a member of our Desert Southwest Annual Conference, serves as an extension minister under endorsement of the Division of Chaplains of the General Board of Higher Education and Ministry of The United Methodist Church. Having served as a US Navy Chaplain, the work Eric does is dear to my heart and important for those of us back home to know about. Rev. Brown is also LT. Brown, but in the Navy tradition his title is always Chaplain or affectionately in the Marine Corps world, "Padre." Following are his words used with his permission. I have an interesting ministry, and it is an extension of the ministry of your local United Methodist Church. You might best understand our relationship by thinking of me as your missionary. Instead of serving on the mission field in Honduras or the Philippines, I serve in the mission field with the greatest concentration of young adults in the world, the United States military. Let me tell you about my mission field.

I left Journey United Methodist Church in Maricopa on January 31, 2014 for active duty service in the US Navy. I felt like God was calling me to a season of military ministry after 16 years of full-time church ministry. I reported to training on February 1, experienced some 3 months of training, and reported to my duty station in Okinawa, Japan in May. I was separated from my family until school finished and they made their way to Japan in July.

This is a very different mission field than the "exurbs" of Phoenix. I work for the US Navy but I am assigned to the Marines (the USMC does not have chaplains; chaplains are assigned from the Navy to Marine units). Instead of new houses filled with families looking for a better life and retirees looking for winters without snow, I serve barracks filled with 18-22 year olds. Where I once spent mornings in coffee shops and at the Rotary club, I now spend my mornings doing "PT," usually a 3 mile run followed by calisthenics. Where I once worried about paying our church bills and celebrating Advent, I now worry about unplanned pregnancies, homesickness, substance abuse, and creating a sense of the Holy in a decidedly-secular setting.

These people need the ministry I bring, desperately. Once a week I meet with our company commander to tell him about the issues going on with his Marines and to help him think through the ethical issues that come across his desk. I do lots of counseling sessions for Marines that are going through hard times; sometimes the counseling is just a friendly listening ear, and other times I need every skill I learned in my Clinical Pastoral Education rotations. These Marines are often alone and direction-less. The Gospel words, "they are like sheep without a shepherd," (Matthew 9:36) frequently echo in my ears. These are young adults with no shepherds, no knowledge of Jesus, and lots of questions. As an extension of your church and working for our global church, I am working as a shepherd of a whole flock of lost sheep.
